

Annual Bay Area HIV Health Disparities Symposium

Friday, March 23, 2018 9:00 AM-5:00 PM

Berkeley City College (2050 Center St, Berkeley, CA 94704)

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS - DEADLINE: February 1, 2018

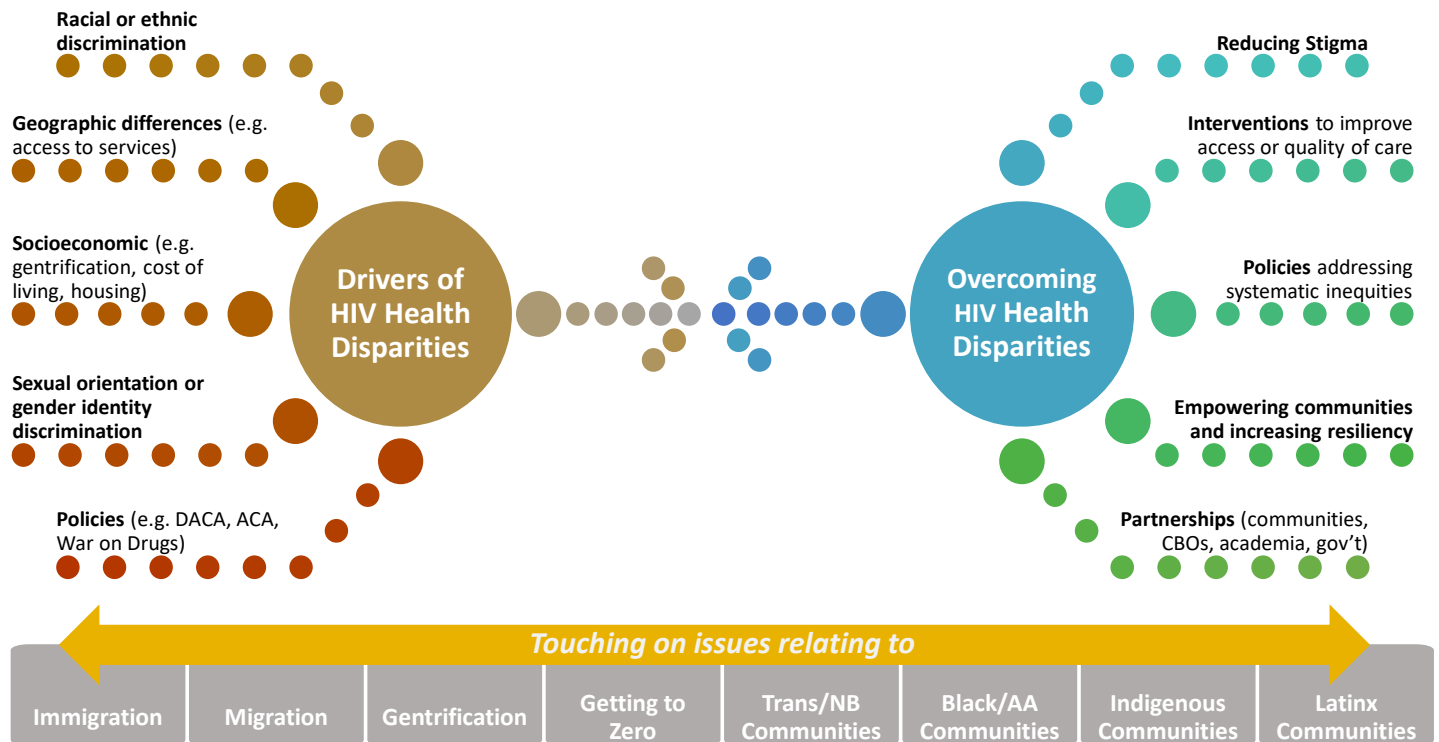

Are you an investigator or program staff engaged in community-based research or programs? Are you looking to present novel research or programs aimed to address health disparities in HIV? Consider submitting an abstract!

Abstracts on health care policy, implementation science, community-based research or programs, and efforts to improve the continuum of HIV care in the Bay Area (particularly but not exclusively the East Bay) are encouraged. Previously presented or published abstracts are welcome. Abstracts are limited to 300 words and include the sections: Background, Methods/Approach, Results, and Conclusions/Lessons Learned.

The four main objectives of the symposium are to:

1. Document health disparities in the Bay area in HIV, whether local, or regional;
2. Highlight innovative ways in which disparities are being addressed currently
3. Generate novel ways to address health disparities in the future and
4. Generate increased and productive interaction between public health programs, community-based researchers, and academic centers.

We are looking for abstracts within the following scope:

This symposium will provide a relaxed, collegial atmosphere where we can discuss preliminary analyses, study concepts, request collaborations, and share experiences. For info on past meetings, visit www.hivforum.org/healthdisparities
