

TIME MANAGEMENT

It's really helped my time management.

Definition of the problem

- “Too much to do” described as single biggest stress by early career faculty¹
- Of 21 workplace “stresses“, 40% were time-related
 - ▣ Nearly 80% felt stressed by both lack of work-life balance and “too many time pressure“
 - ▣ Nearly 70% already concerned about burnout
- Specific concerns
 - ▣ Too much paperwork,
 - ▣ Not enough time for research and other academic pursuits
 - ▣ Lack of control over how time was spent.

Principles of the time management problem in early career faculty

- New problem: Medical training very structured and faculty position, fellowship or post-doc may be 1st time mentee is managing their own time
- Takes time to gain time: Learning time management skills from workshop, book may help but takes time to learn
- Some people don't want to change: Chaos may be way of life for some, and they can't change

*Simply telling someone to be more efficient does not work –
Susan Johnson MD, U. of Iowa.*

Basic principles

- Our supply of time cannot be expanded,
- We do not have time to do everything in which we are interested
- Thus, how we choose to spend our time is critical to successfully accomplishing our goals.

First step in time management – saying “no”

NO

- Mentees often get into trap of saying yes to everything
- We can mentor to say “no” to
 - ▣ Chapter writing (peer review articles are a better use of time)
 - ▣ Joining a committee (that provides no direct career benefit)
 - ▣ Devoting excessive extra time to patient care activities (ouch, sorry)
 - ▣ Collaborating on someone else's grant (when the research is not central to mentee focus).

NO

How to say no

- Mentees find it difficult to say no to senior colleagues, don't know what is in your best interest, fearful of missing opportunities
- You (as research mentor) and career mentor can be a sounding board to offer advice for each new activity
- Help provide a cover story – “My Division Chief won't let me do this”
- Review mentee activities twice-yearly (IDP) and help take things “off the plate”

Mentor should HOPEFULLY help create a work environment that promotes both productivity and well being

- Current academic structure demands
 - ▣ Constant email contact, no vacations, working long hours, little sleep

Myth: The best way to get more work done is to work longer hours.

- No single myth is more destructive to employers and employees than this one. The reason is that we're not designed to operate like computers — at high speeds, continuously, for long periods of time.
- *Instead, human beings are designed to pulse intermittently between spending and renewing energy. Great performers — and enlightened leaders — recognize that it's not the number of hours people work that determines the value they create, but rather the energy they bring to whatever hours they work.

Time sink #1: Meetings

- Make sure the meeting is needed,
- Invite only the people who need to be there,
- Circulate an agenda in advance,
- Start and end on time,
- Stay on topic,
- Create explicit next steps at the end,
- Make sure it is clear who is responsible for each step or task, and
- Follow up to be sure these are done.

Time sink #2: Getting email under control

- 1. Turn off the notification announcing each email
 - ▣ Distracts from task you are performing
 - ▣ Try to check email 3 times a day – beginning, middle, end. If need to more frequently, set timer to check every hour
- 2. Put your contact information in automatic signature
 - ▣ Encourage rapid phone calls to avoid confusing email chains
- 3. Keep your inbox small
 - ▣ Deal with and delete
 - ▣ Create 3 folders: “Waiting for” (waiting for reply), “Projects” and “Reference”

Getting email under control

- continued

- Short emails, convey factual information
- Do not convey emotion or discuss political issues (Traceable and best done by phone, person)
- Make subject line informative (not “hi”, but “Location of journal club changed to library”)
- Think carefully – do you need to “cc” that person?

Getting email under control

- continued

1. Complete at least one important task each day before you look at e-mail (finish the abstract)
2. Set a limit for the amount time you will spend on e-mail at a session – 10 minutes, 30 minutes, 2 hours. Do not get caught up in a never-ending session
3. Work through your messages one at a time, starting with either the most recent or the oldest– and NO SKIPPING!

Working through email

For each message, do one of the following:

- 1) delete
- 2) file (reference or a project file)
- 3) respond / do the requested task, or
- 4) defer to a later time (try to minimize deferred)

Decide!

- Delete
- Save needed information
- File
- Move to Optional Reading folder
- Do / reply now (or move to “Waiting for”)

~ 90% completed

Defer to later

- Ask “Why?” until you come with a plan to deal with

Getting started with a master list for your mentee

- Record what is on your mind:
 - ▣ What do I need to finish this week?
 - ▣ What do I need to finish in the next month or so?
 - ▣ What do I need to finish by 3 to 6 months from now?
- Add what is already in your system:
 - ▣ Add items from any existing to-do lists
 - ▣ Go through your calendar for the next few months
- List each of your areas of responsibility (i.e. “hats”) and ask for each, what do I need to do for this “hat”
 - ▣ “Hat” Examples: Parent, Partner, Runner, PTA President, Residency Director, Clinician, Division Director, Grant PI

Refining process

□ For each item:

1. Is this something I am committed to do?
2. Is this the right time to do it?

List Destination		1 st - Committed?
		Yes	Maybe	Never
2 nd - Now?	Yes	Master List	-	Delete!
	No	Ideas for later/ create reminder	Ideas for later

Paper / document based options

- Put phone away
- Amazon Alexa (Alexa, add x to shopping list; add tasks to task list- can do with Siri)
- Shared Google keep (keep.google.com; shopping lists or shared projects)
- Evernote
- “Managing your energy, not your time” (helps you say yes/no to certain things)
- Fantastical*- can integrate google calendar and outlook under one calendar (can keep personal/business separate if you want)
